COMIC SECTION THE SUNDAY SENTINEL COMIC SECTION

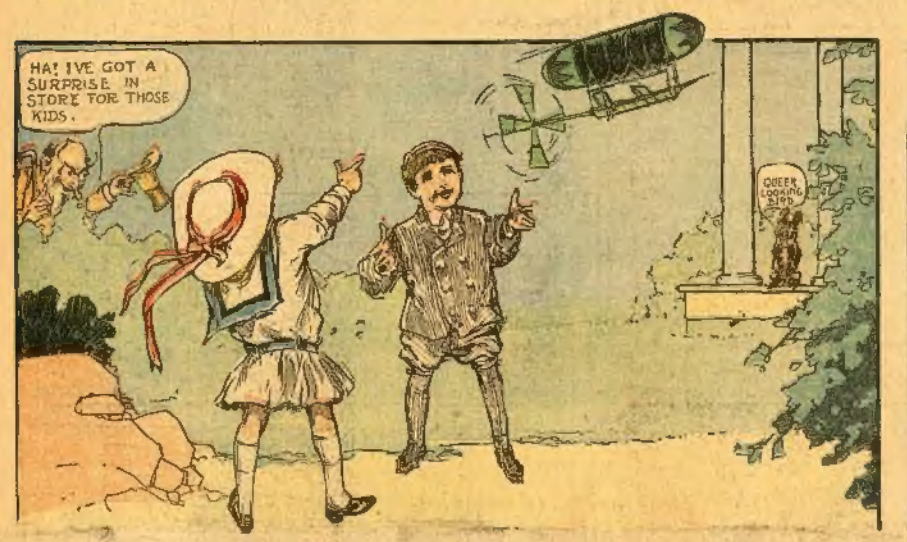
MILWAUKEE, SUNDAY MORNING, MARCH 7, 1909

THE LITTLE JOURNEYS OF NIP AND TUCK



1. A girl and boy named Tuck and Nip were playing with a toy airship
Said Nip to Tuck, "I wish this ship was real, and we could take a trip Above the clouds, and up so high, and see the queer folk in the sky."

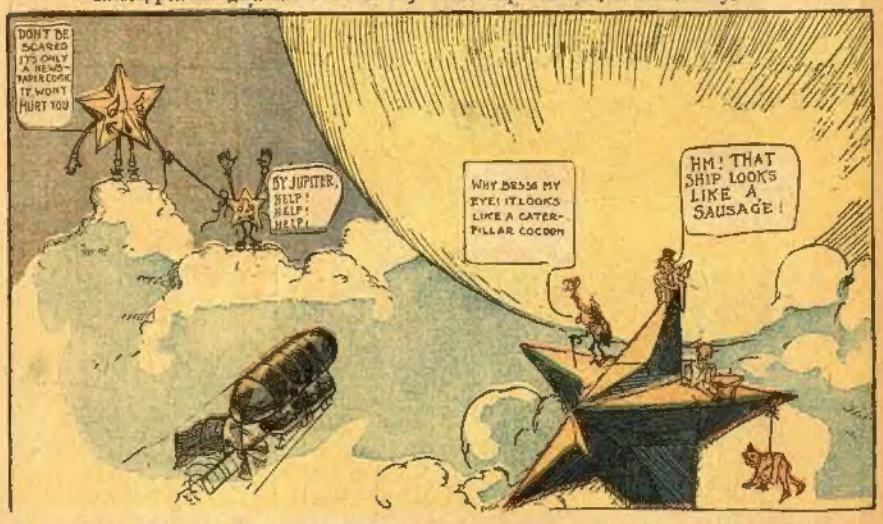
2. Lo, then behold a little gnome! "Your wish is granted—you shall roam."
And with a touch of magic wand, the toy became an airship grand.
In stepped the girl, and then the boy The ship was real, no more a toy.



DON'T BE SCARED IT'S ONLY A NEWSPAPER CORK IT WON'T HURT YOU SY JUPITER, HELP! HELP! HELP!
WHY BESS MY EYE! IT LOOKS LIKE A CATERPILLAR COCOON
HM! THAT SHIP LOOKS LIKE A SAUSAGE!

3. Up rose the ship with wondrous speed, and all their courage they did need;
For looking down, with awe and fear, they saw the city disappear;
They heard the night owl hoot "Too who" and flocks of honking geese passed through.

4. The night grew dark, the stars shone bright, the moon gave out its kindly light.
They left the village far below. Up, up! the airship still did go.
Said Nip to Tuck, "I think that soon, if this keeps on, we'll reach the moon.

5. The ship kept on. By noon next day they passed along the Milky Way.
They anchored there, and found a store of ice cream, cheese and milk galore.
The little tots, by hunger bold, did eat and drink all they could hold.

6. Each one their hunger satisfies. The Sand Man comes to close their eyes.
Upon a bed of buttermilk, the coverlid of downy silk.
The tots lay down, and all is still, and they are soon in Slumberville.

THE NORTH AMERICAN
COMIC (Fourth) SECTION

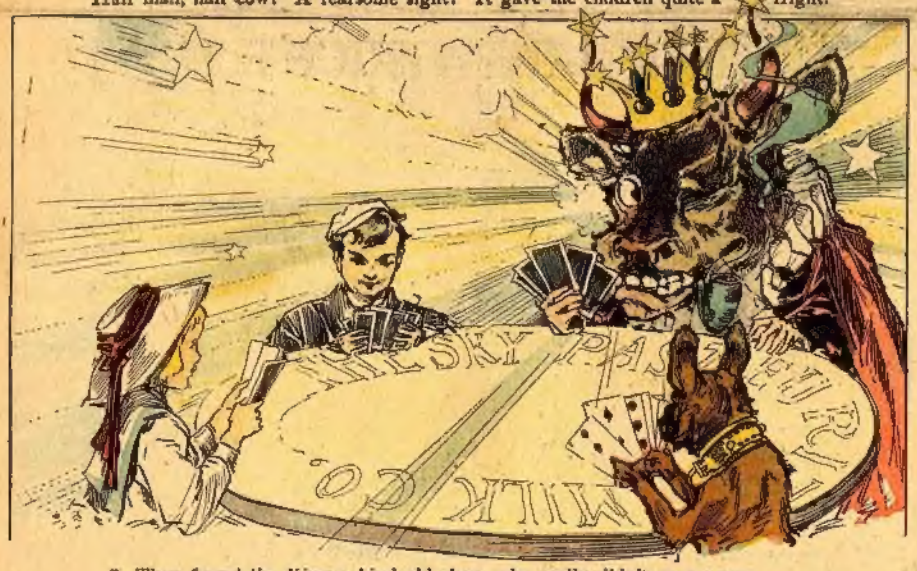
Verses by WRBradford
Drawn by JnoRNeill

PHILADELPHIA, SUNDAY, MARCH 14, 1909.
(Copyright, 1909, by The North American Co.)
136th Year

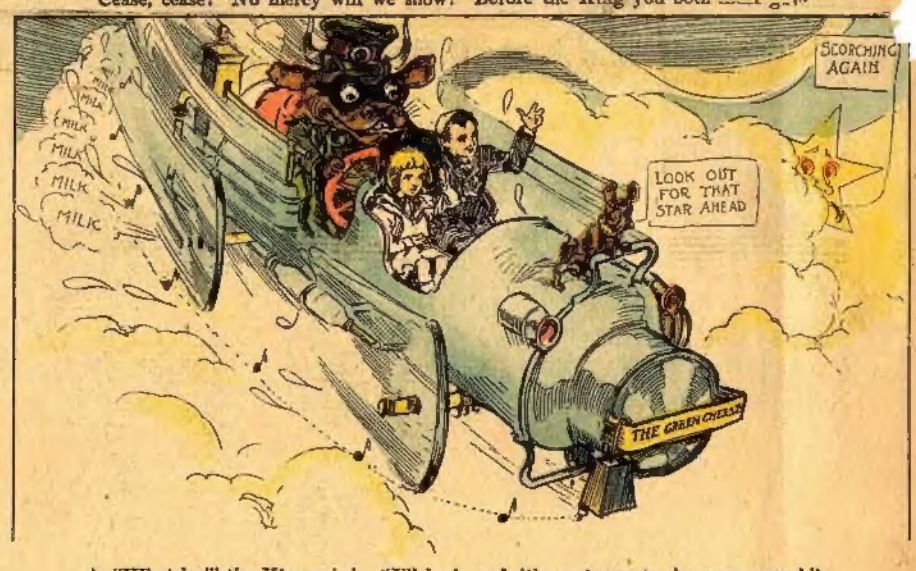
THE LITTLE JOURNEYS OF NIP AND TUCK

CHEESE IT KIDS (cows)
MERCY! WHAT CAN THEY BE
OH, THEY'RE THE MILKY MEN
I MAY BE A BULLDOG, BUT I HOPE THERE ARE NO BULLS IN THAT BUNCH

1. Nip and Tuck, who made the trip to Milky Way in magic ship,
Were wakened from their sleep, and then beheld the awful Milky Man
Half man, half cow! A fearsome sight! It gave the children quite a fright.



2. "What brings you here?" the Milk Men said. "'Tis treason, 'tis the King's own bed!
For this base act you both must die!" Then Nip and Tuck began to cry.
"Cease, cease! No mercy will we show! Before the King you both must go!"



3. They found the King a kind old chap, who really didn't care a rap;
Forgave them both, dismissed the guards, invited them to play at cards;
And, being somewhat of a tease, he ordered some limburger cheese.

4. "What ho!" the King cried. "I'll be bound, it's up to me to show you round."
The King his private car then ran, the "Pump-erino-Auto-can."
Ah, everything was fine as silk. (The motive power was clabbered milk.)

5. "Help!" Nip and
They sweetened it
For flavoring
nd the Milk Men whipping cream.
put in a few.
n bars.

6. The Milky Way began to quake. (That's how they made the first milkshake.)
And now, my dears, if you so mind, to go and look, I'm sure you'll find any drug store in the town the recipe the tots brought down.